

RKD are here to help you tackle Covid-19!

Here at the RKD Workplace Team, we are conscious that many businesses are hoping to return to their workplaces in the coming weeks and months. We are currently undertaking detailed research and using our workplace design experience to anticipate what life in the workplace will be like post- and alongside Covid-19. We are offering the additional services below to our clients immediately, and hope that these will help with the transition. Please contact us for further details.

Pre/Post-Occupancy studies and evaluations, before the business returns to the office

Space planning assessments and updates to allow appropriate social distancing in open plan areas and meeting spaces

Building finishes and furniture reviews including specification of alternative easy-clean products, screening and automation where required

Assessment of existing circulation routes and preparation of proposals for one way systems / other mechanisms enabling social distancing

Design and procurement of enhanced Way-Finding signage and/or hygiene information signage

Coordination with Mechanical Consultants for review of air conditioning and filtration systems and necessary associated layout changes
